The Close Is A Question

Closing isn't a magic moment. It's a question. 'Want to get started?' That's a close. 'Sound good?' That's a close. The technique depends on the prospect, the energy, and how the call has gone. Master all 4 and you'll close any willing buyer.

→ The 4 Closing Techniques

CLOSE 1

Direct Close

Straightforward ask for the sale. 'Want to get started?' or 'Should we move forward?' Best for: confident prospects, high-energy calls, when you've built strong rapport.

Assumptive Close

Assume the yes. Move directly to logistics. 'Cool — I'll send the payment link to your phone now. We'll book onboarding for Thursday.' Best for: warm prospects who are clearly leaning yes.

Choice Close

Give them a binary choice — both options are YES. 'Do you want to start with the setup today or wait until Monday?' Best for: prospects who are hedging on commitment.

Summary Close

Recap what they get, then ask. 'So we'll build the system, run the ads, book your appointments — for £2K + £147/appointment. Want to start?' Best for: detail-oriented prospects who need to see the value bundled.

→ Direct Close — Script Examples

DIRECT CLOSE VARIATIONS

YOU: Sound good — want to get started?

YOU: Make sense — should we move forward?

YOU: Right then — happy to bring you on. Yes or no?

YOU: Want me to lock you in?

YOU: Ready to do this?

WHEN TO USE DIRECT

Direct close works when energy is high and rapport is strong. The prospect is leaning forward. They've nodded through the pitch. They're already mentally signed. The direct close just makes it official.

→ Assumptive Close — Script Examples

ASSUMPTIVE CLOSE VARIATIONS

YOU: Cool — I'll send the payment link to your phone now. Once you click that, we'll book onboarding for [day]. Sound good?

YOU: Right — let's get you onboarded. I'm sending the link now. Talk Thursday at 2?

YOU: Let's do it. Quick payment, then I'll add you to the client group and we kick off next week.

YOU: Okay — moving you to onboarding. Watch for the link in 60 seconds.

WHY ASSUMPTIVE WORKS

It skips the awkward 'do you want to buy?' moment entirely. Most prospects who are 80% there will RIDE the assumptive momentum into a yes. The 20% who don't will speak up — and you handle the objection then.

→ Choice Close — Script Examples

CHOICE CLOSE VARIATIONS

YOU: Do you want to start today, or kick off Monday morning?

YOU: Pay in full or do you want to split it half now / half in 30 days?

YOU: Onboarding Thursday at 2 or Friday at 10 — which works better?

YOU: Start with PPSA at £147 per appointment, or upgrade to the full retainer at £2k/month flat?

THE CHOICE TRICK

Both options are YES. There's no NO option. The prospect's brain naturally picks between A or B, skipping the binary buy/don't-buy decision. Powerful with hesitant buyers.

→ Summary Close — Script Examples

SUMMARY CLOSE VARIATIONS

YOU: So just to recap — you get the full ad system built in 14 days. We run your campaigns. You get qualified appointments. You only pay £147 when we deliver one. Setup is £2K, all-in. Ready to start?

YOU: Bundle this up: full marketing system, ads we manage, appointments delivered to your calendar, you only pay on performance. £2K to start. Want in?

→ After You Ask — The Critical Silence

THE GOLDEN RULE

After you ask the closing question, GO SILENT. Do not speak. Do not fill the gap. Do not 'um' or laugh nervously. The first person to talk loses leverage. Most beginners crack and start justifying. DON'T. Wait. Let them respond.

This silence can feel 30 seconds long even though it's 5 seconds. Embrace it. Top closers can wait 30+ seconds in silence comfortably. The prospect WILL speak. Their answer is everything.

→ Reading Their Response

RESPONSE A

'Yes, Let's Do It'

Close achieved. Move to onboarding logistics immediately. Send payment link. Lock onboarding call. Don't celebrate yet — get the money in first.

RESPONSE B

'Yeah, I'm In'

Same as A but with slight hedge. Skip the celebration. 'Awesome — sending the payment link now.' Execute fast before second-thoughts.

RESPONSE C

'Hmm... Let Me Think'

Not a no — yet. Acknowledge: 'Totally fair. What specifically do you need to think about?' Now you find the real objection. Address it. Re-close. (Full handler in PDF 10.)

RESPONSE D

Objection

'Yeah but [concern].' Acknowledge: 'I hear you. Walk me through that.' Handle it. Re-close with a different technique (if you did direct, try assumptive).

RESPONSE E

'No, This Isn't For Me'

Clean no. Respect it. 'Appreciate you being direct — what made you decide it's not a fit?' Get the data. Then end positively. Don't fight a clear no.

→ The Re-Close (Critical Skill)

If your first close attempt doesn't land, don't give up. Handle the objection, then re-close — using a DIFFERENT technique.

RE-CLOSE EXAMPLE

YOU (first close, direct): Want to get started?

PROSPECT: I dunno, it's a lot of money.

YOU: I hear you. Look — let me ask you this. If the system delivered what I said — 5-10 appointments per week at £3,500 average ticket — would £2K seem like a lot at that point?

PROSPECT: No, that'd be a great trade.

YOU: Exactly. So really it's not the price — it's whether you trust we can deliver. That's fair. That's what we'll prove in the first 30 days. Want me to send the payment link?

[Re-closing with different angle — direct again, but reframed.]

→ How Many Closes To Attempt

TYPICAL CLOSES PER CALL	MAX BEFORE FORCING	EACH ATTEMPT — VARY TECHNIQUE	CLOSE RATE AT 5+ ATTEMPTS
--	---	--	--

THE PERSISTENCE EDGE

Industry stat: most agency owners close only ONCE. They ask once, get a 'maybe,' and book a follow-up. Top closers ask 3-5 times in different ways during the SAME call. That's the difference between 20% and 50% close rates.

→ Closing Don'ts

DON'T

- Ask 'do you have any questions?'
- Say 'no pressure'
- Offer to 'send more info'
- Apologise after stating price
- Skip the close entirely
- Cave after first 'no'

DO

- Direct ask for the decision
- Assumptive momentum to onboarding
- Send payment link DURING call
- Confident silence after close
- Re-close 3-5 times with variation
- Walk away from clear 'no's

THIS WEEK'S PRACTICE

Master All 4 Closes In 10 Calls.

Next 10 calls: use Direct close on calls 1-3. Assumptive on 4-5. Choice on 6-7. Summary on 8-9. By call 10, you'll have a feel for which one fits which prospect. Adjust per call from then on.

END OF LESSON 09

Closes = Memorised.
